Dean's Message

Dear Students and Esteemed Readers,

The Faculty of Economics and Administrative Sciences at Near East University commenced its academic journey in 1988 with two undergraduate programs: Business Administration and Computer Information Systems. Today, the faculty has grown into a comprehensive institution offering 22 undergraduate programs; 11 in English and 11 in Turkish, across 12 departments, in addition to 10 English and 1 Turkish master's programs, and 5 doctoral programs.

Guided by the vision of Near East University, our faculty is committed to becoming "an internationally recognized institution for academic, educational, and scientific excellence." To achieve this, we implement innovative, student-centered teaching methods, including case studies, projects, classroom activities, group work, and discussions, all designed to foster active learning and critical thinking. Our distinguished faculty members continuously enrich the educational process by integrating their cutting-edge research and scholarly contributions into the classroom.

The design of our undergraduate curricula ensures a balance between theoretical knowledge and practical application. During the first two years, students build a strong theoretical foundation through core and general courses. In the later years, specialized courses and a wide range of electives allow students to tailor their studies according to their interests and career goals. With curricula that are regularly updated to meet contemporary global standards, our programs prepare graduates with the competencies required to excel in international career opportunities.

Internationalization is at the heart of our mission. We are proud to host students from diverse cultural and national backgrounds, supported by a faculty team composed of experienced academics from different disciplines. This multicultural environment offers our students a truly integrated learning experience, both nationally and globally.

It is our great pleasure to welcome you as a member of the Faculty of Economics and Administrative Sciences at Near East University. I wish you every success in your academic journey and hope you will experience productive and fulfilling years ahead.

Additional Information

To graduate, students must complete courses totaling 240 ECTS credits. Political Science and Public Administration students are required to complete all core/compulsory courses and technical electives to fulfill the 240 ECTS credit requirement. Failure to do so will result in not meeting the graduation requirements.

A 70% attendance requirement applies to all courses in our program. Students who do not meet this attendance requirement will receive an NA (Never Attended) grade for the relevant course. The NA grade is assigned to students who fail to meet the attendance requirement and lose the right to participate in end-of-term assessments.

The NA grade does not count toward the GPA. In the following semester, the student must again meet the 70% attendance requirement for the same course. For courses that are repeated due to an FF grade, the 70% attendance requirement does not apply.

Important Notes on Elective Courses

Political Science and Public Administration students are required to take 12 elective courses to graduate. These courses must be selected from the elective course list of the program. Courses that are not included in this list cannot be counted as electives. The ECTS credits of elective courses must be equal to or greater than the credits specified in the curriculum.

Exam Regulations, Evaluation and Grading

At our university, student performance is generally assessed through in-person examinations, including a midterm exam and a final exam. However, in some courses, alternative assessment methods—such as project assignments, presentations, homework, quizzes, and group work—are also employed to encourage active participation and evaluate a range of skills. The method of assessment for each course may vary depending on the nature of the course and the instructor's approach. Assessment criteria are communicated to students at the beginning of the semester and are clearly outlined in the course syllabus.

The final course grade is calculated based on the weighted average of all evaluations conducted throughout the term, including exams, assignments, and any additional components. Therefore, students are expected to actively engage not only in exams but in all forms of assessment during the semester. At Near East University, students receive one of the letter grades described below for each course, based on the assessment conducted by the course instructor. Each letter grade corresponds to a specific ECTS credit weight.

To access this system, each student is provided with a student ID number and a personal password by the faculty secretary. After selecting their courses through the system, students must also obtain approval from their academic advisors via the same platform.

The registration process is also outlined on the university's official website. However, students who have not paid their tuition fees or submitted their payment receipts to the Student Affairs Office will not be able to proceed with online registration. Final approval of course registration is completed by the academic advisors of the department.

Additionally, students may complete course registration by meeting in person with their academic advisors within their departments. During the registration period, as indicated in the academic calendar, students are expected to consult with their advisors for course selection and academic guidance.
